This is a British festival that presents nine short films. The first short film was « Old windows », it talks about a special meeting between a coffee owner (Kerri) and an old man(Larry). The old man asks many questions.

These questions were personal. At the end we understand that the old man is a family member of the young woman. It is very emotional.

We liked the short movie and it received an award. The other short movie we liked are « Punch Dunk » and « Switched ».

The short movie were all different. They talk about different topics such as : abandon, representation, war and traditions. It was a pleasant moment for us !
